

“Evaluating Implementation of the Patient-Centered Medical Home in Safety Net Clinics”

Abstract: The patient-centered medical home (PCMH) is a model of care that combines principles of primary care, quality improvement, care coordination, and reimbursement reform. The PCMH is attracting significant national policy attention, but research in this area is nascent. This seminar will discuss some of the methodological challenges and baseline results of an evaluation funded by the Commonwealth Fund to implement the PCMH in 65 safety net clinics in five states.
